

Welcome to the 9th Annual North American Chevra Kadisha
and Jewish Cemetery Conference

Kavod v'Nichum

Jewish Cemetery Association of North America

Skokie, IL June 12-14, 2011
10-12 Sivan 5771

Kavod v'Nichum (Honor and Comfort) provides education, training, advocacy, and information along the continuum from illness and healing through dying, death, and bereavement for Chevra Kadisha groups, individuals, and the North American Jewish community. We embrace the mitzvot of kavod hamet, honoring the body which held the neschama (soul) of a person who died, and nichum aveilim, comforting the community of the living after a death.

JCANA is organized for charitable, educational and religious purposes. It is our mission to preserve and maintain Jewish cemeteries, by assembling, organizing and sharing information relative to the Jewish cemeteries of North America. JCANA is also committed to sustaining community awareness relating to end of life issues, and maintaining Jewish burial practices.

History of the Jewish Sacred Society of Chicago,

Rabbi Schaye Abramowitz and Rabbi Moshe Wolf

The Jewish Sacred Society was started in Chicago in the 1960s as a volunteer effort to train people in a tradition that was disappearing. The tahara manual which the first JSS members developed has been used as a resource for many chevrei kadisha since that time. JSS remains a volunteer effort to this day and performs about 100 orthodox taharot a year between its men's and women's divisions, each of which has about 100 active members. Rabbi Schaye Abramowitz and Rabbi Moshe Wolf will give a history of the JSS and its manual, as well as insights into the day-to-day organization, training, and functioning of this large chevra kadisha.

2:10-4:10 Versailles Room Tahara Track

Tahara Demonstration

Moderator: Rick Light

This conference session will be a tahara training demonstration presented "live" by local chevra kadisha members, written and narrated by Rick Light. The session will include a PowerPoint presentation (available on-line for later review by attendees) that will detail how a team of chevra members might prepare a Jewish deceased for burial. The team will follow the procedures generally accepted by many of the tahara manuals available today. This will be a simulated performance of the tahara that includes the prayers and readings, but does not include any actual pouring of water. A volunteer will pretend to be the deceased as the dressing in burial shrouds is shown. The session will conclude with a question and answer period.

Jewish Genealogy and the Value of Cemetery Records

Nolan Altman

This entertaining presentation will explore family research basics through actual documents and examples and typical family lore. Be prepared to have some myths shattered and to leave wondering about some of the “facts” you believe to be true about your own family. Of course, we will discuss why headstone inscriptions and cemetery burial records are such a valuable resource for the Jewish genealogist.

Toward a Methodology for Using Classic Jewish Texts to Make End of Life Decisions

Rabbi Benay Lappe

In this workshop, we will break down the process of making Jewish end of life decisions into its component parts, fleshing out and examining the role of Jewish foundational principles, rules, texts, the facts of the case at hand, and svara, one's Jewishly informed moral intuition, in reaching a final Jewish answer. Which Jewish principles we choose to elevate over others, which rules we apply, which texts we choose, and how we "read" all of these, have an enormous impact on how we reach the Jewish decisions we make. We will learn several classic Talmudic narratives as well as examine lists of Jewish principles and rules, to help you create your own framework into which you might add the facts of any particular ethical dilemma, to reach your own Jewishly valid answer.

Comforting the Deceased

David Sclar

In the scholarly and popular corpus on Jewish death and dying rituals and beliefs, the practices of preparing the body for burial is largely ignored. There has long been a Jewish tradition of washing the body as a purifying act before burial, known as taharah, but it has generally remained a mysterious custom known only to a few initiates. This paper examines the history of the taharah ritual, its standardization and its proliferation.

Cemetery Mismanagement

In 2009, the Cook County Sheriff's office began an investigation into allegations of mismanagement at the Burr Oak cemetery in the Chicago suburbs. Evidence was found of disinterment and dumping of bodies into mass graves, which allowed cemetery plots to be resold, among other alleged mismanagement. A local reporter who covered this story, a cemetery regulator, and cemetery management expert will discuss the background and implications of this case.

Advanced Tahara - Infection Control and Other Issues

Dr. Michael Slater

This session will address two broad areas of technical expertise in performing taharat. First, chevra kadisha members often encounter a met or metah who has had medical procedures, or whose body has medical devices attached or implanted. How do we deal with medical conditions which may "complicate" the tahara? Which devices can be safely removed, and how? This portion of the talk will be a combination of a formal presentation and a discussion of "tips and tricks" from participants. Secondly, chevra members may be concerned about the risk of acquiring an infectious disease from the handling of a met or metah. I will review the expert guidelines presented by Dr. Michael Bell of the Centers for Disease Control at the 2010 KVN conference.

Doing What Few Do: The Effects of Trauma and Resilience on Caregivers

Charlotte Mallon and Robin Levine

Chicago is the only Jewish Community that has an organized, trained team ready to respond to crises and emergencies. J-CERT (Jewish Community Emergency Resiliency Team) began in 2003 and is staffed by Jewish Federation Agencies' staff. The goal is to assist organizations and individuals to regroup and return to functioning as soon as possible. To that end, two intervention models are used, with an awareness of trauma and resilience as the uniting theme of all activities. The participants will experience the NOVA (National Organization for Victims Assistance) GCI (Group Crisis Intervention) model, and there will be discussion of their reactions to the work that is done by Chevra Kadisha.

Presenter Biographies

Rabbi Schaye Abramovitz is the Director of the Jewish Sacred Society of Chicago and teacher at Yeshiva Tiferes Tzvi.

Nolan Altman, a NY CPA, is currently the president of NTA Consulting, a financial services consulting firm specializing in hedge fund and asset management firms. He currently serves on a number of hedge fund and philanthropic Boards. Mr. Altman was bit by the "genealogy bug" when he was inspired to write his family history in 1996 in memory of his mother. As Coordinator for JewishGen's Holocaust Database and the JOWBR projects, Mr. Altman works with volunteers from around the world helping to grow both databases for the benefit of family members and researchers. Mr. Altman has had articles published in Avotaynu, Dorot, Stammbaum, Shemot and the FEEFHS Journal. He is a Board member and Treasurer of the JGS of Long Island, where he coordinates their Yearbook Project and is also a member of the JGS of New York.

Rabbi Michael Balinsky is the Executive Vice President of the Chicago Board of Rabbis, an organization representing two hundred rabbis of all denominations. He is a member of the Jewish Catholic Scholars Dialogue in Chicago, the Board of the Parliament of the World Religions, serves on the executive of the Council of Religious leaders of Metropolitan Chicago and is on the advisory board of the Bernadin Center at Catholic Theological Union. Rabbi Balinsky was a Hillel director for twenty-two years, over nineteen of those as the director of the Louis and Saerree Fiedler Hillel Center at Northwestern University, after two and a half years as the Associate Director of Hillel at the University of Michigan.

Rabbi Dena Bodian is a graduate of (and now an instructor at) the Hebrew Seminary of the Deaf in Skokie, IL. She has served as the Director of the Jews by Choice program at Anshe Emet Synagogue in Chicago for four years. In addition to managing Anshe Emet's chevra kadisha, she has also been involved for several years with the Progressive Chevra kadisha, a consortium of several congregations in the northern Chicago area. Dena also teaches Adult Education and tutors B'nai Mitzvah.

Lolly Bowean is a reporter for the Chicago Tribune, covering minority affairs in Chicago's west suburbs. She joined the Tribune in 2004 from the New Orleans Times Picayune. Her investigative work at the Burr Oaks Cemetery in Alsip, IL, helped to expose unmarked masked graves and re-used burial plots.

Deborah Brown is coordinator of the two-year-old Chevra Kadisha of Congregation Hakafa, a Reform synagogue in Glencoe, IL.

Nisan Chavkin is one of the founders and currently is the Steering Committee Chair of the Progressive Chevra Kadisha (PCK) in Evanston and Chicago, Illinois. Formally established in Winter 5765, PCK is a multid denominational chevra kadisha serving Beth Emet the Free Synagogue (Reform), The Jewish Reconstructionist Congregation of Evanston, Ner Tamid/Ezra HaBonim/Egalitarian Minyan (Conservative), Lomdim (Chavurah), and Or Chadash (Reform). A native of Onondaga County, New York and a graduate of the Hebrew University of Jerusalem, Chavkin is a member of Beth Emet and lives with his wife and daughters in Evanston.

Elizabeth Siegel Cohen, LCSW is the Outreach and Bereavement Specialist for the Jewish Healing Network of Chicago. This program, under the auspices of Jewish Child and Family Services, provides support to individuals during times of illness, addiction and loss. It is a collaboration between Jewish Child and Family Services, CJE Senior Life, the Chicago Board of Rabbis, and the Jewish Federation of Metropolitan of Chicago. Ms. Cohen joined the JHNC in March 2011; she brings over 15 years' experience working with families on issues related to illness and loss. In her position, Ms. Cohen serves as the liaison to our three preferred provider hospices. She works with hospice staff to ensure that Jewish patients receive culturally sensitive care. She has facilitated numerous grief support groups, worked with individuals struggling with life stage challenges and served as a public speaker on issues of grief and loss. She has worked in hospice, hospital and family service settings.

William Draimin has been a Director and the President of Toronto Hebrew Memorial Park (Canada's largest Jewish Cemetery Organization in size and interments) for 21 years. Currently, he is the Honorary Legal Counsel to the Ontario Association of Cemeteries and Funeral Professionals, and assists in negotiating regulatory change with the Province of Ontario. Previously, he has been a Director and Officer of Toronto's Holy Blossom Temple. He is particularly proud of his wife, Judi, of 48 years, and their two wonderfully accomplished children, Lisa and Robbyn, together with his 3 grandchildren, Jordan Daniel, Samantha and Joshua Daniel.

Noach Dzmura is the editor of Balancing on the Mechitza: Transgender in Jewish Community. Since March of 2008 he has edited Jewish Mosaic's Torah Queeries. A recent graduate of the Richard S. Dinner Center for Jewish Studies of the Graduate Theological Union, Mr Dzmura is an independent researcher, an information- and instructional- design consultant, a teacher and a writer. Noach maintains a website for transgender Jews here and has been published in Sh'ma, the Jewish Chronicle (UK) and Zeek: A Journal of Jewish Thought and Culture. He has taught at recent events sponsored by Nehirim: A Spiritual Initiative for GLBT Jews.

Rabbi Seth (Shaul) Farber, PhD received his Ph.D. from the Hebrew University and his rabbinic ordination from Yeshiva University. He is the rabbi of Kehillat Netivot in Ra'anana where he lives with his wife and their five children. Rabbi Farber is the author of An American Orthodox Dreamer: Rabbi Joseph B. Soloveitchik and Boston's Maimonides School (UPNE: 2004).

Harley Felstein Harley Felstein has over 45 years experience with the management and supervision of Jewish Cemeteries. He has served on a civic advisory committee, overseeing the revitalization of Mountain View Cemetery in Vancouver Canada. He has been instrumental in working with IAATA to formulate the current policy and standards in which human remains are transported by the World Airlines. He also serves on the board of the Funeral Practices Committee of Greater Washington, the board of Jewish Cemetery Association of North America, and as a co-chairperson for the past three years for the Cemetery component of the Kavod v'Nichum conference.

Dan Fendel has been a member of the Chevra Kadisha of Beth Jacob Congregation (Orthodox; Oakland, CA) for about 10 years, has recently organized a chevra in his own congregation, Temple Sinai (Reform; Oakland, CA), and is in the first cohort of the Gamliel Institute.

Imam Harun Firdausi is a licensed funeral director and the president of Chicago's Muslim Funeral Services.

Richard Fishman is the New York State Director of the Division of Cemeteries, overseeing 1900 cemeteries across the state. He leads investigations into the illegal use of cemetery funds. Prior to this, Fishman has worked in a managerial capacity in the office of the Mayor of New York, as well as with the NYC Department of Investigation.

Rabbi Ruth Gelfarb, a master teacher & social justice activist, has served as the Senior Jewish Educator at Univ. of Chicago's Hillel, on the faculty of the Catholic Jewish Education Enrichment Program, and as a scholar-in-residence around the country, including Limmud Philly and Limmud Chicago. Rabbi Ruthie led service-learning trips to Ghana, Thailand, and El Salvador and is a retired navy chaplain.

Rabbi Mel Glazer, DD, DMIN, received his Ordination and Doctor of Divinity degree from the Jewish Theological Seminary and his Doctor of Ministry Degree from Princeton Theological Seminary. A congregational rabbi with more than 35 years experience, Rabbi Mel Glazer is a prominent GriefRecovery® specialist certified and trained by the GriefRecovery® Institute. Rabbi Glazer has counseled, lectured, and conducted workshops in the interfaith community across the United States and Canada and has contributed articles and chapters to theological and general interest publications and books. His work has been featured on TV, radio, and the Internet, and he wrote a monthly column, "Your Grief Matters," for the Pocono Record in Stroudsburg, PA. Rabbi Mel lives with his wife Ellen in Colorado Springs, CO, where he is the Rabbi at Temple Shalom.

Rabbi Maralee Gordon serves McHenry County Jewish Congregation in Crystal Lake, IL, and Congregation Beth Shalom in DeKalb, IL. She is the rabbi of the McHenry County Jewish Cemetery, consecrated two years ago in Woodstock, IL. In addition, she chairs FaithBridge Interfaith Alliance in McHenry County, and helps coordinate the Interfaith Jail Ministry to Detained Immigrants housed in McHenry County Jail.
